

GUIDE TO THE 2020 CENSUS

By participating in the Census, we can help Oregon families get the healthcare, housing, schools and other services we need to thrive.

Every ten years, the US Census counts every person in the country. You are counted regardless of where you live, how old you are, or your citizenship or immigration status. The results of this year's Census will decide Oregon's share of billions of federal tax dollars for schools, hospitals, roads and more. Data collected during the Census is used to draw lines for state and federal legislative districts for the next 10 years, and Oregon could gain a sixth Congressional seat in the House of Representatives.

If our families don't get counted in the Census, Oregon loses out on dollars to support our communities. More than 600 federal programs will use data from the 2020 Census to distribute funding.

KEY POINTS TO REMEMBER

- ✓ The US Census Bureau is bound by law to protect your answers and keep them strictly confidential. The law ensures that your answers cannot be used against you by any government agency or court, including Immigration Customs and Enforcement (ICE).
- ✓ Responses about how many people are living in the household on April 1 are confidential and will NOT be shared with landlords or property owners.
- ✓ Some Census questions don't provide options that you might need, especially around race, gender identity or sexual orientation. The Census Bureau respects how people self-identify on the Census. Since responses are restricted to few options for many questions, answer how you self-identify.
